MAC GEARS UP FOR ROYAL

CARL TAPSCOTT GROUP WELL RECEIVED HERE

A fascinated Macdonald College audience was held spellbound in the Assembly Hall Monday night by an excellent performance by the Carl Tapscott Singers, of Toronto, and Miss Joyce Sullivan, also of the Queen's Fair City. Thunderous applause greeted each of the groups' renditions of popular favourites ranging from sea chanties ("What Shall We Do with a Drunken Sailor") to a particularly pretty Canadian folk song, "Eskimo Lullaby". Especially rousing were the singers' interpretations of "Balm in Gilead", a negro spiritual, and "This Old House", a hit of recent years.

Miss Sullivan's performance of "Deep River" was very well received as were her other selections. Pianist for the group, Lloyd Edwards, played a Lerner and Lowe composition from "Camelot" — "If Ever I Would Leave You", and a Dick Rodgers tune from "Oklahoma" — "Out of My Dreams". Both solos were heartily approved of by the audience.

To add to the evening's enjoyment the audience was let in on the recording of two CBC radio programmes, a novel and very interesting experience for most of us. The performers rehearsed on stage and then were taped for broadcasts on Sunday, February 17 and 24. Those interested in tuning in on the programme "from Macdonald in Ste. Anne de Bellevue, P.Q., on the occasion of its founder's day" may dial 940, CBM, Montreal at 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

Special thanks are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Stewart for having made the concert possible. It was highly enjoyable and without doubt will be remembered on this occasion for years to come.

Tomorrow night will see the square-dancing competition well-underway (if one can call a 30.7% turn-out "well-underway") in the Brittain Hall gym. For those of you who are not mathematically inclined, that percent works out to 4 teams out of 13 participating — is this class spirit? The evening is sure to be fun for spectator and participants alike so why not make it a date?

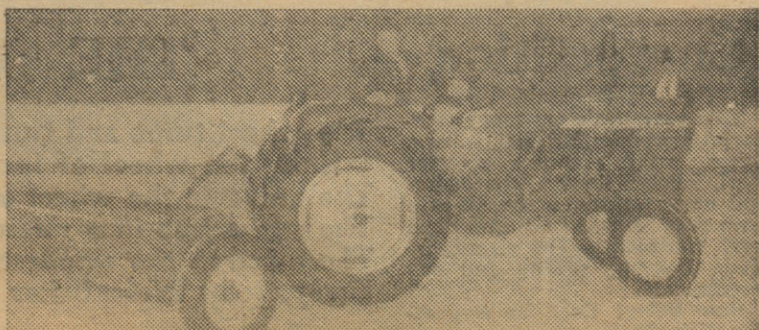

Highlight of the evening will be the pie-eating contest, when each person will try to prove his pie eating abilities. It's a contest that requires little practice and is hilarious to watch. That's tomorrow night at 7 o'clock sharp. Will we see you there?

TRACTOR RODEO

To-day will be a big day for the Royal over at Glenfinnan Rink for, as you know, it is the day of the Tractor Rodeo. There are trial runs going on this morning, but the show will begin this afternoon, at 1:30, and will run through until about 3:30. In the past, the whole show has been left completely to the fellows, but, this year, the girls will have their in the Tractor Rodeo. Phyllis Carkner, a third year H.Ec., will take her place on a tractor beside the boys in the four different events. These four events will be taking place at the same time, one contestant in each event. In each one, the contestant is required to drive around the rink displaying some skill necessary in the handling of these machines.

The judges present to-day will be from Massey-Ferguson, International Machinery Company and Ford Company Canada.

The winners will receive their trophies on Award Night next Friday, just before Green and Gold.

ROYAL QUEEN TEA TOMORROW AFTERNOON

Tomorrow, after being at a tea, the candidates for Royal Queen will be presented to the judges. Here is a bit of background on each of our girls.

Louise Knowles, H. Ec. III,
20 Garden City Ave., Ste. Anne de Bellevue.

Louise graduated from Macdonald High School in Ste. Anne's. Presently at Mac, she is her class president and has taken part in many of the college activities through the year. She is showing a Holstein bred Heifer in the livestock show. Her interests include cooking, sewing and skiing.

Penny Tomalty, Phys. Ed. I,
159 Third St., Greenfield Park, Que.

Penny graduated from Royal George School in Greenfield Park, where she participated in many High School activities. This year, being in Phys. Ed., she is active in both interclass and intercollegiate teams and is manager of the intermediate basketball team. She has also taken part in other campus activities and was nominated by her class for Gold Key. She is most interested in skiing, water sports and horseback riding.

Judy Evans, Teaching II,
664 Paquin St., Lachute, P.Q.

Judy's home is Lachute, Quebec. She attended and graduated from Lachute High. Here, at Macdonald, she takes part in interclass sports and other campus activities, including the curling club of which she is Publicity Manager.

Phyllis Bryans, Temporary Permit,
Seaforth, Ontario.

Phyllis participated very fully in many activities at Seaforth District High School from which she graduated. She has continued these interests here, at Mac, in the Literary and Debating Society, her class play, and other activities. Her major interests lie in art, including oil painting, poetry and classical and folk music.

Gillian Price, Temporary Permit,
93 St. John's Road, Pointe Claire, Quebec.

Gillian graduated from Beaconsfield High, where she took part in Student's Council, Red Cross, and many other high school activities. She has been an Alouette majorette for the last two years. This year, she has taken part in the CIVIL play, entered at Toronto and is giving instruction in baton twirling at the YMCA. Her interests include football, golf, swimming and majorettes.

EDITORIALS

It has been well known for a long time that a certain institution downtown on Ste. Anne St. would not exist were it not for the exuberant and zestful cooperation lavished on it by the tenants of Brittain Hall (and to a lesser extent, those of Stewart and Laird). In short, the wide spread patronage of Joe's by "Mac" students has made of it one of the most flourishing enterprises on the Lakeshore, not to speak of Ste. Anne itself. We don't wish to imply that the benefit is all one way — Joe's does provide a very important public service to "Mac" students, make no mistake about it. Joe's does have a product which caters to the psychological well-being of the students. But it is true that the benefits Joe's and "Mac" students derive from each other are far from reciprocal. As we've said, the prosperity of Joe's, and indeed of Ste. Anne itself, is directly dependent on "Mac". We suggest, therefore, that Joe's shows a greater sense of community responsibility. Specifically we suggest that Joe's make it financially possible for more students to attend "Mac". This will not only produce more teachers, farmers, and cooks, but would also contribute to the prosperity of Joe's and thus of Ste. Anne by providing a larger clientele. We suggest also that Joe's endow a research fund at "Mac" so that much more effort can go into producing better ale, etc. This would not only be a contribution to our store of knowledge, but would also mark "Mac" as a pioneer in making the latest in academic research available to more consumers and of course this will mean a larger clientele for Joe's as well.

We would like to rise above petty provincialism and suggest benefits to the nation as well. By making it possible for more students to attend "Mac" and thus frequent Joe's; proprietors and students would make a significant contribution to the reduction of the overwhelming Canadian wheat surplus. We could extend this line of reasoning further, but lack of space forbids. In short, we suggest that the adoption of our proposals by the proprietors would rebound to the credit of Joe's itself, the immediate community, and Canada at large.

At the regular meeting of the Student Teacher's Society Executive on Tuesday, February 12, the results of recent constitutional amendments vote were announced. These amendments were passed with a majority of 92.7%. The S.T.S. executive wish to thank all those members who co-operated with them in this matter by voting.

The question of having speakers was discussed, but with the present chaos in Ottawa, it was felt that our chances of getting a political figure to address us at this time was very slim. However, keep an eye on the notice boards as we are hoping to have a speaker on Russian Education very soon.

to the editor

Dear Sir :

We wish to launch a complaint! We went to Revue Night hoping to enjoy good entertainment. As far as the acts presented are concerned, they were of good calibre. However, the Master of Ceremonies left a lot to be desired.

To use the so-called jokes and stories related by the M.C. was completely out of taste for the occasion. We shudder at the impression given to visitors since the audience also consisted of professors and young children! What kind of reputation does Mac have now? We feel that the committee showed lack of good judgement in their choice of material used by the announcer.

A public letter of apology would be in order and we hope that in this way Mac could erase the bad impression left on both visitors and students.

Disgusted - A.F. & S.M.

To the powers that be,
It has been suggested that next year, notification of T. P. and 2S students for Carnival Queen nominations take place before Christmas exams, rather than the Monday after the deadline. These two groups begin lectures two weeks after the majority of students at the college, and consist mainly of commuters. They therefore, are completely unaware of nominations until too late.

Secondly, people who are kind enough to actually notify these classes should get their dates straight, and instead of, for instance, indicating snow sculptures to be finished Saturday morning, state correctly Thursday evening, saving the time of 20 enterprising individuals who spent Saturday afternoon finishing a disqualified sculpture.

We one year students, with less time as the others, would still like to participate in college activities. However we seem to be neglected until someone decides it would be a nice gesture to ask for our services — at the last moment.

CARNIVAL '63

I wish to offer my sincere thanks to everyone on the Carnival Committee and to everyone else who helped us make carnival the success it was. A lot of people did a great deal of work and I hope they feel their efforts were not in vain. Thank-you once again.

Competition

This year there are many wonderful prizes for the best entries. These prizes include sweater wool, fabrics, flowers, chocolates, and many others, so be sure to have your entry in no later than next Wednesday. The classes include knitting, sewing and any needle-work.

Don't Delay! Deadline Wednesday, Feb. 22.

COMMENTS

Student Council

A very important meeting of S.C. was held on Monday evening. Several changes for the Student Council Constitution were proposed and will be presented to the Students' Society meeting on February 25th.

A Student Handbook Committee was appointed to edit an entirely new handbook. An agreement on this matter was reached with Student Publications.

Plans for Student Council banquets and Students' Society elections were formulated.

Much discussion was given to the matter of finances for the I.V.D.L. The Council expressed concern that the matter had been left until the last minute, but decided to provide $350 for the group.

● HERE WE GO AGAIN : When I gave up this "column of controversy" about three months ago, it never occurred to me at the time that I might be writing the same again. The desire has vanished (not to mention the time) and since there are not too many left who still read the paper, it seems rather pointless to even worry about or bother with this column and its continuance. At least, it would certainly take something very poignant to awaken me to the crusade that was carried out earlier in the year. Well, the monster has risen out of the deep and it once again becomes not only my desire but my duty to bring the stimulating circumstances to the force.

● "MR. CLEAN" IS WASHED UP ! Known by other names, Ronald "Augie" Augustine is nothing less than a disgrace to this college! Referred to in a past issue of the "Times" as being our "popular M.C.," "Mr. Clean" most certainly needs a little bit of cleaning up himself! If the sort of display that was allowed to continue at the Revue Night last Friday is the only way in which one can become popular around here, then, I suggest that we have stooped as low as we can go! The exhibition last Friday night was not only offensive and undesirable, but downright obscene, impudent, immoral, and uncalled for! It is unfortunate that such a person should be allowed to get up on a stage in front of goodness-knows-who, and carry on in the disgraceful manner in which he did that night. I felt ashamed to admit to anyone that this small-time Larry Day who had been making a fool of himself up on the stage was a fellow scholar and a student of Macdonald College! This brazen clown made fools of us all and I sincerely hope the incident did not go unnoticed and will be dealt with by the proper authorities!

LEAVE US A LITTLE "PRIDE," "MR. CLEAN" !

Answer to the last week's riddle.

Riddle: Spell blind pig with only two letters.

Answer: Since the pig is blind it will have no "I" (eye)

Therefore PG satisfies the spelling.

As a hint to help you understand the answer, pronounce "I" and "eye". They both pronounce the same. Do you get it now?

THIS WEEK'S MENU

Jokes: This is an anecdote of a policeman and a woman.

Some policemen are very discreet in reporting the death of a man to his wife, but some are not as you shall see in this case.

Policeman: (He raps at the front door, and a lady appears.) "Are you widow Johnson?" he asked.

Lady: "I'm Mrs. Johnson, but I am not a widow," she explained.

Policeman: "That's what you think, just wait till you see your husband."

The chief confronted his men in disgust. "So, you let the convict escape!" he snapped. "Did you cover all the exits as I ordered?" "Yes, sir!" stammered one of the guards. "But we think he must have left by one of the entrances!"

The bandage-covered the patient who lay in the hospital bed spoke dazedly to his visiting pal: "Wh-What happened?"

Visiting pal: "You absorbed one too many last night, and then you made a bet that you could jump out of the window and fly around the block."

Patient: "Why didn't you stop me?"

Visiting pal: "Stop you, hell — I had $25 on you."

Proverb: Offense may come, but woe to the offender.

Riddle: What is the cleanest letter in the alphabet? (For answer to this riddle, read next week's issue.)

Report for the producer —

With less than a week to go, rehearsals are going almost continuously. Most of the scenery is finished. Costumes have been completed. In short, all that is needed now is an audience.

Tickets are on sale in the foyer of Stewart Hall. Unfortunately tickets for Friday night's performance are no longer available due to the large numbers required by special guests and visitors to the College Royal.

MAC ON STAGE

Tonight the Mac Drama Club will be presenting the one-act play "The Red and Yellow Ark" by E.H. Devany as our entry at the annual four day Inter-Varsity Drama League Competition at Hart House at the University of Toronto. Other universities represented are UNB, Bishops, SGWU, McGill, Carleton, Western, U of T, Ryerson Tech., and Mount A.

"The Red and Yellow Ark" has been directed by Bob Gourlay (T.P.), and produced by Victor Bush (T.P.). Properties were looked after by Janet Durdan (B. Ed. II). It is about a 15 year-old boy, Austin Henry, with a psychological fixation on a kite. He is staying at the home of Georgi who wants him to pay more attention to her and to go to the circus with her. Most of the action takes place around this circus which involve most of the twenty-one characters in the play.

The two leads, Austin Henry and Georgi are played by Marion Dawe (B. Ed. I) and Jim Thyer (B. Ed. I). Others in the cast are Jerry Taylor (T.P.) as John Randolph, with Bonnie Eccles and Myrna Bryan as a very vocal pair of Siamese twins.

Wednesday night the play was presented in the Assembly Hall as a final rehearsal before the cast left by train for Toronto that same evening. It was presented in full costume and make-up, but

INTERCOLLEGIATE BASKETBALL

The Senior Intercollegiate team left yesterday afternoon for McMaster University in Hamilton, Ontario, to compete in the Stewart League Tournament. The four competing teams are: McMaster, Carleton, OAC, and Macdonald. The tournament is a single round robin in which each team plays the other three teams once. Games are scheduled in this order;

Friday morning: OAC vs. McMaster
Carleton vs. Macdonald
Friday evening: Carleton vs. OAC
Macdonald vs. McMaster
Saturday morning: OAC vs. Macdonald
Carleton vs. McMaster

The teams are competing for the Mrs. Walter M. Stewart trophy which was donated by the Macdonald WAA with the assistance of Mrs. Stewart.

In 1955, the first year of the Stewart League, Macdonald was the winner of the trophy, and since that time have brought it back to Mac three times, the third time being last year.

The coach, Miss P. Walker feels that Carleton University will prove to be Macdonald's strongest competition this year. The Senior team has already played Carleton twice this season, winning both times, although the teams were very well matched.

The twelve members of the team will be staying at the Sheraton — Connaught Hotel in Hamilton and will return to Macdonald after a closing luncheon on Saturday evening.

All games will be played at McMaster University. The League rotates from college to college every four years. The tournament will be held here at Mac next year.

The best of luck to the twelve girls and to their coach, Miss Walker.

INTERCLASS VOLLEYBALL

The class points for the interclass volleyball tournament are as follows:

Section I	Section II
HSc - 13	HSc III - 8
HSc II - 12	HSc IV - 5
2P - 20	FPa - 16
F3 - 3	FPb - 20
F5 - 16	2BD - 3

Win 5; loss 1; default 5.

Playoffs were held on Wednesday evening between the winners in the two sections, 2P of section I and FPb of section II. The winner of this match was 2P.

New Englanders Victorious in Woodsman Competition

In the woodsman competition, Saturday, Paul Smith's Foresters emerged head and shoulders above all the other entries. Unfortunately our second team (which placed second) and our first team (which placed fourth) were both disqualified for the snow-shoe event because their shoes were too small. However the hundred points which were lost still would not have put either of our teams ahead of Paul Smith's. This disqualification might have had a psychological effect on the team, so we have an alibi. Now let's get the Freshmen out to clean up the mess on the lower campus.

MAC BASKETBALL TEAM RECEIVES RECOGNITION AS PUCKSTERS HIT TAILSPIN

Although few people realize it, our basketball team is in contention for the Ottawa-St. Lawrence championship. After losing their first three games, the team has come on strong winning five straight league games and two exhibition games. As of Wednesday night, when the paper went to press, the team was two points behind Loyola with one game in hand. Last night we played host to Loyola and the results of that game are not available at this time.

For the hockey team, the prospects are not bright. For a team with much potential they have not fared as well as expected. In losing their last four games they have been unable to get untracked. It appears to be impossible to get our team fired up while earlier in the season they were so hot they melted the ice. Who stole their "Wheaties"?

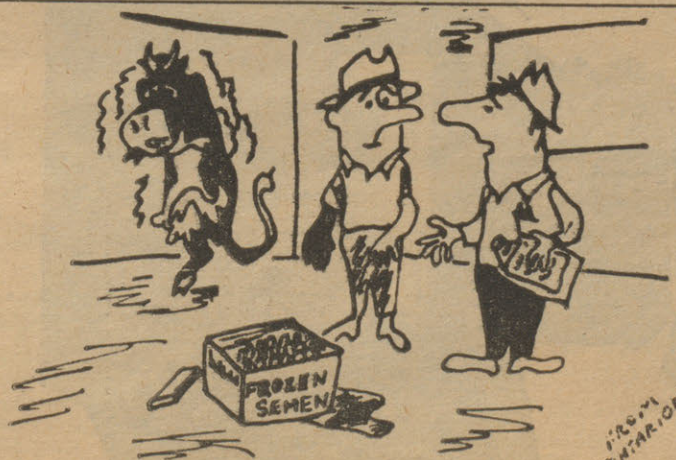

In contrast our basketball team has come from the dressing-room bursting with desire. I think their spirit stems from the fact that they have a leader. Give the hockey team the "holler guy" and they would be able to conduct a sustained drive too. Few athletic teams can survive without leadership from a member of the team itself. But do not despair, there is always next year.

Long live South Africa!

5 to 1 its BULL

HOCKEY MARATHON

Have you heard the latest? A marathon hockey game here at Macdonald College! The puck will be dropped at eleven P.M. on Friday, March 1. We have no set objective as of yet but participation is essential as a challenge has been sent to all universities and colleges across Canada. McGill had its "poolithon", bridgithon, and "monopolithon", but they will be nothing compared to our "hockeython". Get your mixed teams ready, and then contact Judy Chapman, Guy Jacob, or Don Grant. Teams do not have to be mixed, they may be all male or all female. No matter how its done it should be a ball. There will be a small entrance fee which will go to a charitable organization. The calibre of your hockey is unimportant. The only obligation the participants are under is to have a "ball".

Bottoms up!
